There is a national strike in Korea of medical interns and the entire medical system is under stress as a result of privatization and profiteering. At the same time, the government is attacking and jailing union members and leaders accusing them of “corruption” while the government is mired in corruption and turning the wealth of Korea toward militarization and the US encirclement of China and North Korea for war.

The labor speakers from Korea will report on the most recent strike and the character of it as well as the growing class divide and class struggles in Korea. They will also report on the Korean struggle in solidarity of the Palestinian workers and people, and the fight against militarization in Korea and Asia along with the need for unification with US workers opposing the US drive toward war in Asia and the world.

Song, Ho-joon is a railway worker who has participated in the Korean labor movement and railway workers' organizing struggles for the last three decades. He has been imprisoned twice due to his involvement in railway workers' strikes. In 2015, the union members of KCTU Seoul Region elected him as General Secretary of the Korean Confederation of Trade Unions (KCTU) Seoul Regional Council. After his two-year term was over, he went back to his workplace in 2017 where his job is to maintain and repair facilities and train cars.

Joon Seok is with the National Workers Meeting To Restore Grassroots Struggles & Realize Working Class Solidarity & A socialist activist in Ulsan which is the largest industrial city in Korea.
